

The Marquis of Lorne will soon be made a duke. He ought to be made into something. He is no good at the present writing.

The Madison Democrat is in error in stating that the Wisconsin hospital for the private care of the insane will be at Janesville. It is located at Geneva, La.

They are considering the question of sending out an expedition to the Arctic region for the relief of Lieutenant Greely. By all means do it, but send some of the surplus naval officers who can be readily spared, as they will not return.

We have at last one man in Washington who would rather be in private life than be a member of congress. Mr. Kasson, of Iowa, will retire to private life, and devote the remainder of his years to literature. He is one of the ablest men in congress, but he can't afford to stay there and neglect his home in Iowa.

The Chicago Tribune has been badly sold on the old poem, "The Beautiful Snow." Last Monday it published as original, over the name of G. W. How, the poem that has been read so often during many years; and yet there did not seem to be one editor on the Tribune that knew that its "original poem was bogus."

Joseph Poole was hanged in Dublin on Tuesday. He killed John Kennedy, an informer in the Phoenix Park murder case. This makes eleven deaths as the result of the Phoenix Park murder. Seven have been hanged, and four murdered—the latter being Lord Cavendish, Secretary Burke, Carey and Keane, the informers.

Everyone will esteem the common sense and intelligence of the good wife of the Rev. W. H. Murray, the noted "Admiral" Murray. That gentleman has not been much of a companion to his wife for a few years past. His waywardness sent her abroad to study medicine, and lately she returned with a diploma issued by the Vienna Medical college. She is now in a condition to let her husband roam as he wishes, she can amply take care of herself.

The politicians of Washington territory may possibly build worse than they suppose. Woman suffrage is an established fact in that territory, and the men who have been running the politics of the territory for some time show a little spite by preparing a petition to the president for the appointment of Mrs. Duway governor. She early became a leader in the movement to confer suffrage on the women of that territory, and therefore is the most prominent woman in Washington. She has excellent ability, and it would be a good joke on the politicians if the president would give her the appointment.

The frankness and honesty of the New York Sun, in one particular, must be publicly acknowledged. It says right out in its issue of "Arthur is a good man, weighing 250 pounds or thereabouts. He came into the presidency by a tragic accident, and he remains there to the satisfaction of people in general. Most of the faults of his administration are quite as much the faults of the republic as party as his own. It is not too much to say that he is the best president the country has since the death of Abraham Lincoln." This is the first complimentary notice Mr. Dean has given a republican president since the administration refused to keep him in office 17 years ago.

Mr. Robert G. Ingersoll will make an attempt to receive the election as a delegate to the next national republican convention, from the District of Columbia. He tried to go to the convention of 1880, but on account of his opposition to the churches, and the strong prejudice against coming from the colored people in the district, he was defeated. But circumstances have changed since then, and the colored people will urge his election as delegate to the next national convention. Mr. Ingersoll is a shrewd man in a political way. When the supreme court declared the civil rights bill null and void, he took the lead in denouncing the decision of the court, and he has kept hammering away at the decision ever since. He had an eye on the future, and has gained the point he started out to make. The colored people of the District of Columbia are in the majority, and they are for Ingersoll, which means that he will go to Chicago as a delegate next June. The ministers will not be able to defeat him with a solid colored vote for him. Should he be a delegate to the convention, he will probably nominate Mr. Blaine, and in that event he will doubtless give the country a piece of oratory which will surpass in brilliancy his great speech in Cincinnati in 1876, which made Ingersoll a national character.

The North American Review for January presents a table of contents possessing in the highest degree the character of contemporary human interest. First, the opposite sides of the question of "Ecclesiastical Control in Utah" are set forth by two representative men, whose competence for the performance of the task undertaken by them respectively admits of no doubt; viz: President John Taylor, the official head of the Mormon church, and the Hon. Eli H. Murray, governor of the Territory of Utah. Second, John I. Mitchell writes of the "Tribulations of the American dollar," recounting the strenuous efforts of the people of the United States to extinguish the national debt. In an article entitled "Theological Re-adjustments," the Rev. Dr. J. H. Rhyland insists upon the necessity of eliminating from the formularies of belief and from the current teachings of the churches. Senator Henry W. Blair, taking for his theme "Alcohol in Politics," declares his belief that another irrepressible conflict is at hand, and advocates the submission to the people of an amendment to the United States constitution prohibiting the manufacture, sale and importation of intoxicating liquors. No one who reads in the December Review the first half of "The Day of Judgment" Gail Hamilton's incisive review of the domestic life of Thomas Carlyle, will forego the pleasure of perusing the latter half in the current number. "Evils Incident to Immigration," by Edward Self, is a forcible statement of the mischief wrought by the importation into our social and political life of an enormous annual contingent from the lowest stratum of the population of Europe. Finally, the subject of "Bribery by Railway Passes" is discussed by Charles Aldrich and Judge N. M. Hubbard. Published at 20 Lafayette Place, New York, and for sale by booksellers generally.

IN OCEAN GRAVES.

The Ghastly List of Ocean's Victims Grows Apace.

Two More Vessels Which Will Not Turn No More with Their Precious Freight—Twenty-four Lives Lost.

GLoucester, Mass., Dec. 19.—Two more vessels with crews numbering twenty-four persons, which sailed early in November, are added to the long roll of those which sank in the terrible August and November gales which swept over the fishing banks. The schooner George H. Pierson sailed for Gloucester, Nov. 10, with a crew of twelve men. The lost are Capt. Patrick O'Neil, who leaves a widow and three children; Cook, James Ryan and John Keogh, who leave widows; John Keogh, William Brennan, John Conners, Abner Larrabee, Isaac E. Egan, who leaves a widow, William Driscoll, Michael Reedy, James Galvin, who leaves a widow, and one unknown. The vessel was owned by Cunningham & Thompson, and was insured by the schooner Helen M. Davis sailed on a fishing voyage to the western banks, November 17, with a crew of fourteen men, two of whom, Wesley Brown and Maynard Hiltz, were swamped early in the trip while out in a dog attending to the trawls, and were picked up and safely landed in Halifax, thus leaving twelve who went down with the schooner in the gale. Their names are Capt. Archie McPherson, Joseph McPherson, Victor McDonald, Joseph McPherson, James Murphy, Augustus Hiltz, Alexander Scanlan, Edward Colliers, Allen McLean, one unknown. They were mostly young men and natives of Cape Breton. The vessel was owned by George Dennis and was insured. The above vessels increase the loss by the November gales to nine vessels and 115 men, which, added to the three vessels lost in the Cape Breton gale, makes a total of twelve vessels and 149 men, leaving as far as yet ascertained, thirty-four widows and thirty-eight fatherless children.

A Heavy Failure.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A meagre dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, announcing the assignment of the Standard Coal & Iron company has caused many inquiries in this city. According to Bradstreet's reports the company was incorporated about ten months ago with an authorized capital of $3,500,000. Thirty thousand acres of mineral land in the Hocking valley were purchased and $2,000,000 expended in opening up and equipping a small part of the property. Several iron furnace companies were also bought up, and it was evidently the intention of the company to control the coal and iron business of the Hocking valley by absorbing the various companies there. Among the directors and large stockholders were the Hon. James G. Blaine, John Ames, Hon. Eugene Hale, Hon. James A. Garfield, Hon. Charles F. Foster. There were in all about 1,500 stockholders. It has been learned that the New York creditors had taken steps to recognize the company for their own benefit, and the name of the Ohio & Western Coal and Iron company. The capital stock was fixed $3,000,000, and bonds $5,000,000. The old company had been mismanaged and they are in hopes of making it a success.

Blindfold Chess-Playing.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 19.—Dr. Zukertort played blindfold simultaneous games against ten of the best chess players in Baltimore. At 11:15 a. m. he had won four games, and it is probable that he will defeat the remaining six contestants. The games commenced at 8 o'clock in the evening. Ten chess boards were placed in two rows on the tables on the outside, and a table standing between them. Dr. Zukertort took a position in the room where he was unable to see any of the boards, and when one of the players made a move, the latter called it out, and Dr. Zukertort then directed the latter how to move for him. He was thus compelled to carry ten games in his memory at the same time.

Made Faces at Bar.

SCANTON, Pa., Dec. 18.—Flora and Ella More, of the "Bunch of Keys" combination, were arrested at the instance of Miss Mary Willis, a former inmate of the prison, who is now at the Academy of Music, and, as she alleges, making faces at her behind the scenes. A compromise was effected in time for the company to make the train for Canton. Mr. Willis is still playing with the company, making the character of Jones Grimes, jealousy on the part of Mrs. Willis is assigned as the cause of the trouble.

A Collision on the Erie Bridge.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A collision occurred on the East river bridge near the Brooklyn end, between a passenger coach and a bridge engine. The car was coming into the station from the southern end, where the switch engine stood ready to transfer it. The brakes refused to work and the car rushed upon the engine, shattering the cab and wrecking the platform of the car. Most of the passengers had left their seats, and the sudden stop threw them into a confused heap. None was injured, however.

Meeting of Illinois Pioneers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 19.—It is understood that on the occasion of the reunion of the survivors of the Constitutional convention of 1847, on the 31 of January, William A. Grinnshaw, of Pike county, will be temporary chairman, and Harrison G. Reynolds, of the same county, secretary. The only surviving officer of that body, will be accorded, as a compliment due him, the position of secretary. John M. Palmer will deliver the principal address.

How Did He Get There, Angelo?

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Deaf Frank Smith, the New York tenor who disappeared, has returned home. Before his arrival Mrs. Smith, in a telegram from Philadelphia, said: "I am in Philadelphia. I don't know how I came here or why." He went to Philadelphia and brought Smith home. He seemed in good health, and said he could not remember taking the train from New York Friday evening. The clerk at the hotel where he stopped noticed nothing peculiar about him.

ALARM IN LONDON.

The Great City Excited Over Rumors of Impending Disaster.

Gladstone's Home Protected by Police and Himself Advised to Sleep Elsewhere—General Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—London is trembling with fear. There is little outward excitement, but more than at any other time for years are grave fears felt that some terrible manifestation of Irish vengeance is impending. The officials are "on the qui vive" and believe some disaster is impending. They are ready to grasp and magnify the slightest evidence of the existence of a plot. The public has become so wrought up by the press that they are waiting, for something they think certain to come. Rumors of all sorts are talked about. The police are closely watching the houses of the leading Irish Nationalists. It is reported that the lord mayor has received anonymous letters threatening to blow up London bridge and Newgate. The detectives, who were withdrawn from the prison after O'Donnell's escape, have been re-ordered there. Extra police on duty about the bridge watch the arches and examine all carts passing and searching all persons crossing.

A Reminiscence of O'Donnell.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—It has transpired that O'Donnell, on reaching Dartmouth embark for the Cape, exhibited a ticket by the Orient line for Australia. On being informed of the mistake, O'Donnell, who could not read, was much embarrassed, and a few fumbling in his pockets produced a proper ticket by the Cape line for Natal. This fact is construed in support of the government's theory that O'Donnell was in the service of the Irish Nationalists. The impression first formed in England that O'Donnell was to be sent to New South Wales, and it is supposed that O'Donnell was furnished with a ticket by the Australian line in order that he might follow him there. But on his being learned that the government had decided to send him to Natal, he was told to go to the Cape line, and it is supposed that O'Donnell was in possession when starting on his journey.

Hanging of Joseph Poole.

DUBLIN, Dec. 19.—Joseph Poole suffered death for the murder of John Kennedy, suspected of giving information at the trial of the assassins of Cavendish and Burke. Poole was perfectly resigned to his fate, and walked with a firm step to the gallows. He stood erect upon the scaffold and asked for the execution, which he fortly kissed. The drop was seven feet, and he died in three and one-half minutes. A minute after the bolt was drawn Poole's feet touched the ground, but the victim was already dead.

Plot Against Gladstone.

LONDON, Dec. 19.—On Monday night a special body of armed police from the district headquarters drove furiously to Howard's castle. The inspector in charge informed Mr. Gladstone of a plot against him, and he came to the castle to see the police. He was told that the police had been told to leave home for the night. Mr. Gladstone accordingly drove to the house of the country gentleman and slept there, returning to Howard's castle in the morning. The police remained on guard, and are still protecting the premises.

Invincibles on Trial.

CONC, Dec. 19.—At the Conc assizes the trial of the seven Invincibles charged with conspiring to murder in County Mayo, was continued. Bernard Coleman, informant and principal witness for the prosecution, was again on the stand. His evidence strongly implicated Scragh, one of the prisoners. The evidence of Nally's brother remained unshaken during a severe cross-examination.

The Dynamite Trial.

DUBLIN, Dec. 19.—In the trial of the dynamite, McDermott, Devany, Callaghan, McLean, McLaughlin, Devany, Kelly, McKelvey, Dunn and Caspy, for conspiracy to blow up public buildings in Glasgow, the evidence showed that the explosive material was all made in Glasgow, and from there shipped to Liverpool, where it was discovered by the police.

Prince and Protector.

ROMA, Dec. 19.—After the crown prince of Germany had been elected with the pope for three-quarters of an hour he was conducted to the apartments of Cardinal Jacobini, with whom he had an interview which lasted half an hour.

The Visit of the Crown Prince.

The visit of the crown prince of Germany was not returned. This omission was the result of a specific request on the part of Frederick Wilhelm, who is urging every endeavor to avoid an occasion for any increase of friction between the Vatican and the imperial. The monarchs, the pope's energy, in commenting upon the visit of the crown prince, says that a hope for religious peace in Prussia may now be entertained. His holiness, however, has conveyed nothing, and his position is that of a passive listener and adviser. In Italy no change in the relations existing between the church and state will result from contact between the German emperor and the papacy. The long desired bridge between the Vatican and the imperial still remains to be built. Germany has illustrated the fact that she comprehends the advantage to be gained from the moral support of the policy in her inter-religious religious disagreements. Prince Bismarck has undoubtedly sought the alliance with the holy see, that he may use it as an offset to the inroads continually being made by that audacious democracy which is permeating the whole of Europe.

Why They Call Him "Old Man."

"Yes, that's sadly so," said Jenkins, "my hair is turning gray and falling out before the time. Use something? I would, but most hair restorers are dangerous. 'True,' answered his friend, 'but Parker's Hair Balsam is as harmless as it is effective. I've tried it, and know.' Give the Balsam a show and the boys will stop calling you 'Old Man Jenkins.' It never fails to restore the original color to gray or faded hair. Richly perfumed, an elegant dressing. ASSAULT ON A REPORTER.

Knocked Down From Behind and Severely Injured.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 19.—Mr. Christian O. Bonhard, a reporter on The Enquirer, a German evening paper, left the city buildings at noon and walked east on Ninth street toward his office on Main street. Walking on the other side of Ninth street was George Campbell, Irish gentleman, who was alone. When a few steps from Elm street, on Ninth, Bonhard was approached by Campbell, who is a prominent police court lawyer, who stole up behind him and dealt him a powerful blow on the neck, knocking him down on his face. At the time the victim of the assault did not know who the other was, but as soon as he "turned his face upwards" he saw Campbell, who said, his face red with rage: "You know what you have done. Where is your gun?" Not giving the reporter time to rise, he kicked him terribly four times in the face, and once in the nose, inflicting fearful bruises. Not until he had risen, covered with blood, did the assailant, cease his bloody work, and the "Donkey" started back toward the station house to be again assaulted. This time less savagely than before. The injured man staggered up through the hall of the buildings, and with his face still bleeding, entered the clerk's office. Finding no one there, he went into the superintendent's office, where he was met by Capt. Hudson, who had him taken home and a physician summoned. The nature of the attack is supposed to be a "feeling" article which have appeared in The Enquirer lately, in regard to what the paper terms the ring to which Campbell and Von Markel belong. The past few days the names of the subjects have been unusually prominent, and it is thought that this was the immediate cause of the attack. Capt. Hudson arrested Campbell and brought him to the Central police station. Bonhard is lying in a very critical condition from the effects of the injuries received.

Addie Brennan's Case.

JANESVILLE, Dec. 19.—In the trial of Capt. George J. Gordon, for the abduction from Astoria, long island, of Addie Brennan, Police Justice Samuel W. Skilling and C. H. Benson, a reporter, were called by the defense. They testified that in the preliminary examination Addie Brennan testified under oath on the first day that Capt. Gordon had up his jacket with her, to her subsequent contradiction of this testimony on the second day, and to her statement that what she testified to on the second day was the truth. At this point Capt. Gordon called the witness, District Attorney Whitgift then recalled Addie Brennan. She testified in answer to the prosecutor's questions, that Capt. Gordon never took her into a vacant lot in Astoria and that the marriage ceremony to her; he never said a word in the lot to her; he never took her by the finger a ring, and placing it on another finger, at the same time saying, "With this ring I take you." The state then rested, and counsel for defense began his argument.

How He Got Out of the Difficulty.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The suit of James McFarland, of London, England, against the trustees of the Atlantic & Great Western railroad, is attracting much attention here. McFarland, with a party of local Irish lawyers and servants, is stopping at the Kennard house.

Arraigned on a Murder Charge.

ALBANY, Ill., Dec. 19.—Charles G. Stuart was arraigned charged with being accessory to the murder of Dr. William H. Brown, his brother-in-law, both having married sisters. Dr. Brown had been married twice, and while a widower lived with Dr. Stuart's family in North Henderson. Early in the morning of November 29, 1882, Mrs. Dr. Stuart went to the house of Brown and shot him through the body. Dr. Brown was lived 100 days, dying March 2. The murder was mysterious. No one knows to-day what prompted the deed. Since the death of Brown Mrs. Stuart has been confined in jail. It is not thought that the prosecution has a very clear case against Dr. Stuart.

Commenced with Pearls.

A mouth garnished with pearls flashes radiance every time it opens. The contrast between the ruby of lovely lips and the pearls that they enclose has won the fancy of many a poet. Sozonora, fair ones, is the thing that most contributes to adorn the feminine mouth. It is pure, it is aromatic, it retains the natural color of teeth, it is enriched with yellow tannin. No gritty or other objectionable ingredients contaminate it, its odor is balmy, and its purifying operation thorough.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

Annual Meeting of the Rock County Sunday School Association.

Held at Shoopers, December 18th and 19th, 1908.

The Rock county Sunday school association met in the village of Shoopers, on Thursday, December 18th, at two o'clock p. m., and opened with a devotional exercise, led by Rev. Mortimer Smith, of the Congregational church. He read from the second chapter of Acts. An hour and a half was spent in prayer, song and words of hope and cheer. After which Mr. Varty, in a few well-chosen words, welcomed the delegates to Shoopers. He spoke of the origin of Sabbath schools—the first regularly organized in the United States, was in the year 1785. He had looked forward to our coming, and had prayed for it, and to all who might say anything that should help in the Sunday school work, he extended a cordial welcome.

In responding, President R. M. Benson said: We come here as soldiers of Jesus, and prayed that we might be guided by the spirit of Christ.

J. T. Wright explained how the Mountain assembly had interfered with our summer meetings.

The secretary's report of the annual meeting in March was now read and accepted.

Committees were then appointed.

Messrs. Varty, Smith and Wright on programme, and Messrs. Collins, Oils and Oliver on resolutions.

Motion was made that the evening service begin at 8 o'clock, as the day before, would be obliged to leave at 8 o'clock. After singing and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Varty, we adjourned.

Devotional exercises were led by Brother Russell Chaffey, after singing the hymn "Blest be the tie that binds." Mr. Chaffey told the story of the Prodigal Son, and then sang the song of the same name, Mrs. Cheney joining him in the chorus. All then sang "Nearer my God to Thee," and then sang "The Lord is my Shepherd." Mr. Chaffey then read the benediction.
